The delegates were once more business men and Mr. Debs soon realized it, for he changed his tactes at once. "I have a telegram from Washington, he said. The President is going to appoint an arbitration committee, so I have prepared the following document, which, with the consent of this conference, I would wish President Gompers to the Board of General Managers."

"He then proceeded to read the document presented by Mayor Hopkins, calling off the strike upon condition that the old men would be reinstated. He left the document, and the conference promised to send him an answer.

"A little reflection on the part of the delegates, and they realized that if Mr. Gompers was the bearer of the message and the managers refused to accept it, the A F, of L would be placed in an embarrassing position. It was resolved to tell Mr. Debs that he could choose any three gentlemen in the Convention, who, with an equal number of citizens and Mr. Debs, should call upor the Board of Managers, but Mr. Gompers must not go alone.

"Hour after hour the conference waited for Mr. Debs's reply, but none came until the afternoon papers announced the fact that Mayor Hopkins had presented the document, and that President Debs had dumped the conference.

TERRACE GARDEN.

The entertaining Smith and Cook were the star attractions at the Terrace Garden last night. Their comedy sketch was exceedingly funny, and was greatly appreciated. The programme was full of good things, the best features being Loisett's stork circus, Richmond and Glenroy, the comedians; Ward and Lynch, the Irish funny men; the Tanakas, Japanese jugglers; Mile. PROCTOR'S THEATRE.

"Nell Gwynne," a tuneful comic opera by Planquette, that was once interpreted at the Casino, was sung yesterday at Proctor's Theatre by the Wilbur Operat Company, with Susie Kerwin in the leading role. The living pletures were again seen—heroic, idylile and quaintly humorous, as Mr. Proctor neatly puts it. The principal vaudevillers were Charles Forbelle, the burlesque artist, formerly a member of Corinne's company; Frank Armstrong, the comedian; Walker Keene, Charles de Carns, a juggler; Marion Plis, a soap scuipto; Frank Manning and Prof. Henry, a necromancer.

Lee Fee's Case the First to Be Called Out of a Score.

Some twenty odd Chinamen, arrested on warrants charging them with being implicated in a conspiracy to smuggle Chinese laborers into the United States in violation of the provisions of the Chinese Exclusion act were taken into United States Commissioner Shield's office in the Federal Building at 11 o'clock this morning for arraignment. In addition to the accused Chinamen was Matthew Brussel, a white man, a drumme for a local grocery house, who is believed to have engineered a number of the smuggling cases.

Lee Fee, who is supposed to be the head conspirator, and who is said to have made a full written confession, is the one the Government seems to be most desirous of connecting with the frauds.
